Introduction

"Every man is a quotation from his ancestors."

This little volume is the result of many years of research during leisure time. It has been a service of signal pleasure. It is by no means complete, and errors have crept in. "Errors are common". I only ask that the imperfections which it contains be overlooked.

Its intent is, "To preserve the living and to make the dead to live."

It is more especially designed to preserve the genealogy of Moses Anthony Cortright (1745-1824) and his descendants, with the family of Martin as complete as it has been possible to make it. And the genealogy of John Webber (1773-1847) and his descendants, with the family of David Ballard as complete as it has been possible to make it.

"For I am of a numerous house
With many kinsmen gay."

For the history of the Cortright Family name, as well as of the towns and localities in which the early members of the family resided, refer to the "Cortright (Kortright) Family", by John Howard Abbott, 1922. In his book he gives an excellent account of the towns and family in Holland, Flanders, Harlem, Esopus and Minisink; and it seems unnecessary to repeat this history.

The Cortright ancestors were mostly farmers, living simple lives, industrious and honest, of strong religious convictions, but very few attained distinction.

This book has been published by William Horace Cortright and arranged by his wife, Alice Messenger Cortright, in living memory of our parents, Cornelius C. Cortright and his wife, Cornelia Webber Cortright.

I wish to express my gratitude and sincere thanks to those who kindly aided me by supplying the necessary data, thus making this work possible.

Your compiler is amply compensated in the thought that this record may afford pleasure to the Cortright and Webber descendants by giving them reliable information heretofore not available to many, the grandchildren and great-grandchildren in the coming years will be glad that some one took the time and thought necessary to collect and arrange the data which will be more valuable as the years pass on; and may it foster an honest pride in an honorable American ancestry of more than two hundred years.

"I and my forebearers here did haunt
Two hundred years and more."

The arrangement of this book is so simple it will require no explanation, while the abbreviations are those generally used, such as, b., for born; bap., for baptised; m., for married; d., for died; dau., for daughter; etc. (†) Where this symbol appears before a name it indicates that elsewhere in this book more information is given regarding this person.

COAT-OF-ARMS AS USED BY THE CORTRIGHT FAMILY
IN DEERPARK, NEW YORK, ABOUT 1700

Cortright Arms

The Armorial ensign given on page 7 is the Coat-of-Arms used by the Deerpark family before the Revolution, hence all of the descendants of this family have a lawful right to use it. I am giving it simply as a curiosity, and trust it will be so considered. I hope no Cortright will be vain enough to have it painted on his carriage door, or use it in any other way as a decoration to show his "noble birth", for it must be remembered, that our branch of the Cortright Family is purely and thoroughly American, and that our ancestors fought and died for the liberties of this great Republic, before it had even a flag.

Description of the Cortright Coat-of-Arms

Ermine. A fesse between three fire balls sable issuing flames proper.

Crest. A wolf's head erased or pierced through the neck with a spear, argent.

Motto. Defend the fold.

A Coat-of-arms is granted by a Sovereign for some public service either as a statesman or on the field of battle. A Coat-of-arms when granted, as stated, is a test of nobility and prestige; the figures or "Charges", as they are called, are designed to represent the achievement of the first bearer and his character.

The meaning of the "Charges" is as follows:

The Ermine (white with black spots, like the fur of that name) is the background of the arms and betokens dignity of position. The fesse, which is the strip across the arms, is sable or black and when the arms is formed in jewels, as it often is in Europe, this is made in diamonds: a fesse means the belt of a commander. The fire balls signify the warrior and as there are three, our ancestor upon which this honor was conferred must have commanded in three wars. The flames issuing from the sides and top of each ball denote public service, hence he must have been a statesman as well as a warrior.

The figure of the Crest is called the bearing. Piercing the wolf's head with a spear is called erasing or tearing it off. The "bearing" of the wolf's head is very ancient and uncommon and means that our ancestor was persistent as a wolf and a very brave strategist. The spear with which it is pierced, shows that the family history dates back to the period when the spear was used in warfare.

The Motto is patriotic, and signifies that the first Cortright was instrumental in defending his Country.

Sept. 3, 1861, near Arlington Heights, Virginia, being shot and killed in the early part of the war of the Rebellion by a rebel bullet which passed through the barrel of the musket which he was carrying, making a clean hole, about ten inches from the muzzle, through the barrel, about the size of a minnie ball, at the same time shattering the stock, a most singular occurrence. The musket was one of the first issued during the war and bears the Harper Ferry stamp on the lock. His was the first military funeral in Hillsdale Co., Michigan. The funeral was held in the Court House in charge of Dr. Underwood. His musket which still contains the charge placed there by him, is in the Capitol building at Lansing for preservation.

The following letter from a comrade of Mr. Cortright, who was with him at the time he was killed, and directed to his wife, Mrs. Cortright, describes the affair:

Virginia, September 3, 1861.

Mrs. Levi Cortright:

Your husband and myself went out on a little scout to get some peaches. After passing our pickets we entered a little patch of woods which we intended to go through, but he discovered someone and we halted behind a tree. He then moved to another tree to see who it was, when a shot was fired, the ball striking him in the stomach. He raised his left hand, saying: "I am shot! I am shot! I am surely killed!" They fired five shots at us. I stepped almost in front of him when the second shot was fired and stooped over to see where it came from, the ball passed by my face, tickled me, and struck him in the right side. He retreated back ten or twelve rods and called for me to assist him. He then sat down and I went to the 22nd New York to get help. Some of the soldiers went back with me and we took him to the picket post and sent for an ambulance, which conveyed him to camp, where he died about an hour later. He was shot about 2 p. m. and died about 4 p. m.

Yours truly,

Eri House, Co. K.

The Hillsdale Standard of Sept. 17, 1861, contained the following account of Mr. Cortright's funeral at that place:

"The funeral of Levi Cortright, of the Michigan 4th Regiment, who was shot while on a scout near Arlington Heights, on the 3rd inst., held at the court house on Tuesday last, was attended by citizens from nearly all parts of the county, and was the most solemn and imposing ever witnessed in Hillsdale. The body arrived from Washington on Monday evening, and was immediately taken to the court house where it remained until morning, and the coffin was taken from the case and placed in the hall. As the body had been embalmed, the features had been preserved in their natural state.

The family of the deceased, relatives and neighbors, arrived about noon, when the most heart rending scene of a wife's anguish and the mournful lamentations of five children, as they viewed the lifeless remains of the husband and father, cannot be described; only those who witnessed the mournful spectacle can have any conception of the anguish of that heart-stricken family. It was a scene to those present that can never be erased from memory.

At the hour appointed for the funeral ceremonies the court room was crowded. Dr. Underwood, of the committee, stated that Rev. Gallagher, who was expected to preach the funeral sermon, would not be able to attend, in consequence of a sudden and severe attack of sickness in his family. Rev. Mr. Peters and Comfort being requested, conducted the funeral services."

The following communication was read by Mr. Comfort, dated, Arlington Heights, Va., Sept. 4, 1861, who followed with appropriate remarks:

We, the tent mates of the lamented Levi Cortright, do sincerely lament his untimely end, and his great loss to our Company and Army, and do sincerely mourn and sympathize with his bereaved family and neighbors for his loss to them. But to die as he died, and in the noble cause that he was engaged, is both honorable to himself and friends; and we say, let us all die as he died, and fill an honorable soldier's grave as he does, rather than see our proud flag trail in the dust and be dishonored.

Jacob Rodolph, Peter Forenna, David Worden, Wm. H. Ross, James Quackenbush, Charles H. Rupert, David Brock, John W. Stephens, Stephen H. Mallory, Jesse D. Critchfel, James Tarsney, Thomas Gregory, Frank Forncrook.

The remains were taken to Oak Grove cemetery and deposited in the burial ground selected for the burial of volunteers from this vicinity.

The family settled in Hillsdale county about 1851 and moved from there to Algansee township, Branch county, in 1855.

Horace Cortright was interested in the saw-mill business early in life, having mills in various places. While operating his mill in Eaton County, Michigan, he purchased a large farm in Carmel, which he improved and upon which he built a commodious brick house; here he led the quiet life of a farmer until his death. He was a man of excellent business ability, which enabled him to gather together a large property. When his children came of age he gave each of them three thousand dollars.

Cornelius C. Cortright. was born Sept. 10. 1827. in Red Creek, Wayne Co., N. Y. He sailed on the Lakes for a time, but while still a young man, he started West. to make a fortune, as many of the youths in this part of the country did, for it was at this time that the East was full of stories of the great possibilities in the West. With his brother, Horace, he first engaged in saw-mill business in New Washington, Ohio. But hearing of the timber lands in Michigan, these two brothers came on to Eaton Co., and engaged in the same business. Cornelius later sold his interest in the mill to his brother and went to Alagansee in Branch Co., where with another brother, Moses C., he operated another saw mill, only staying here a short time, for in 1856 he went to Bankers. It so happened (as such things will happen) that visiting in his brother's home was Moses' little sister-in-law, the 17 year old Cornelia Webber, whom he fell in love with and very soon married. Wishing to set up a home of their own they went to housekeeping in Bankers. I have heard Mrs. Cortright say that when she was married she did not know anything about housework or cooking, being a younger daughter among seven girls: she said she did not even know how to boil water. But she had much common sense and this she used in her home, soon becoming an excellent housekeeper and much celebrated for her splendid cooking.

Mr. Cortright operated his large saw mill in Bankers for about ten years. In 1860 he purchased the fine 220 acre farm in Reading township. There was a log house on the farm when he bought it, but he soon built a "plank" house and in 1867 he put up the very fine brick residence which still stands there. When his children finished in the district school, he brought them to Hillsdale that they might have the advantage of high school and college.

In 1887 he purchased the water power in Homer on the Kalamazoo River where he built a flour and feed mill. It was in 1888 that he exchanged his farm in Reading for the farm on Cook's Prairie, which is still in the family and where his youngest son, David, now lives.

In 1893 he, with his sons, William and Fred, came into possession of the mill one mile north. This lower mill has been converted into an electric light and power plant, and the son Wm. is now a heavy stockholder and manager of both the mill and power plant. The electric plant furnishes light and power for the city of Homer and the mill is doing a thriving business.

In many ways Mr. Cortright was in advance of his time, for he was a man who noted the great passing events of real life, and who co-operated in the accomplishment of these rapid changes. It was with intelligent and increasing interest that his eyes looked upon the development of Michigan and its many changes in his day. A great state in which new counties were organized, and old boundaries rearranged; section after section of cultivated fields was converted into towns and villages, corduroy roads gave place to finished graded roads, railways have multiplied, postal communication perfected, newspapers and telegraph came; centers of mental activity were established; educational activities were brought to a high development; church spires pointing heavenward arose in every direction, bearing strong testimony to the declaration that "Righteousness exalteth the nation". Michigan was the back woods no longer. He had the ability to see what the future would be and profited thereby.

When he passed away from life's day of ceaseless industry, which he had devoted to useful purposes, the event marked the closing of a well rounded career. He had walked in a straight road, rendering acceptable service to the community in which he lived. He was respected by all who knew how to respect integrity, trustworthiness, and a sound character. Such an existence does not fail to excite a glow of admiration. He died at the age of 77 leaving a nice property. And with his wife he lies in the family lot in Fair View cemetery, Homer, Michigan.

Webber

I find that this branch of the Webber family came from the York, Maine, branch of the Mass. Webbers: for the early history of the family I take my records from "Genealogical Sketch of the Descendents of Several Branches of the Webber Family", by A. Button, pub. by L. S. Laing, Book and Job Printer, East Saginaw, (Sarinac) Michigan, 1878, p. 14 & 15.

1—Samuel Webber, (Son of Woalfert), lived in Falmouth (now Portland), in 1681. In 1692 he was a witness on the trial of the Rev. George Burroughs of Salem, for witchcraft, (see U. S. History), testifying to his great strength (see court records). In 1695 he lived in Gloucester, Mass., at which time, by his wife Deborah, a dau. was born bearing the same name. They also had a son John: also Waitstill, a son, and Patience, a dau. (twins), b. in 1698. Samuel Webber moved to York, Maine, before 1700, where he d. in 1716: his wife and five sons survived him.

2—John Webber had a son, John Jr.

3—John Webber Jr. had a son.

4—Charles Webber, b. 1741, at Old York, Mass.; m. in 1761, Hannah Call, of Dresden. They moved soon to Vasselborough, Me., where they raised a large family of children as follows:

5—William, had no children.

6—Charles, m. Judith Chadwick, had 12 ch.

7—Sarah, had 10 ch.

8—Mary, b. 1769; m. John Goshen, had 12 ch.

9—James, b. 1771; m. Susannah Woodman of Vasselborough, had 8 ch.

10—John, b. 1773; m. Lucy Ballard.

11—Nancy, had 1 ch.

12—Joseph, had 3 ch.

13—Samuel, b. 1779; m. Jerusha L. Capen, had 12 ch.

14—Hannah, b. 1780; m. Amos Childs.

15—George, had 4 ch.

16—Benjamin, had 3 ch.

Hannah, the mother, d. at Vasselborough, Me., and Charles Webber m. (2) Mrs. Smiley, of Sydney. To them was b. one child:

17—Jeremiah, m. Belzora Horn.

Charles Webber d. in Vasselborough, Me., in 1819.

10—John Webber, b. 1773; m. Lucy Ballard. Their children were:

- a. Charles.
- b. Betsey, d. unmarried.
- c. Stephen, b. 1800; m. Harriet G. Clay of Gardner, Me.
- d. David, B.
- e. Mahala.
- f. John, d. unmarried.
- g. Louisa.
- h. Belzora.
- i. Rhedi R.
- j. Sumner P.
- k. Dyer F.
- l. Betsey Ann.

John Webber moved to Plymouth, Ohio, where most of his children were raised and where he d. in 1847. Lucy, his widow, d. in 1861, aged 86 years. All the above records are from Mr. Button's book; I am giving the records sent me by Fred H. Webber of Plymouth, Ohio, too, as they are taken from records long in this branch of the family, so I feel that they are more accurate than any other would be. They give the descendants of John 10 as follows:

10—John Webber (Samuel 1-John 2-3-Charles †), b. about 1773; m. Lucy Ballard, b. Oct. 22, 1775, dau. of Jaoathan and Alice (Moore) Ballard, d. Oct. 30, 1861. He d. Feb. 1, 1847.

Their children were:

†18—David Ballard, b. Sept. 13, 1799; m. Lucy Conklin.

19—Dyer.

20—Rhedi R.

21—Sumner.

22—Stephen, b. 1800; m. Harriet G. Clay.

23—Ben.

24—John, unm.

25—Cordelia; d. July 18, 1847.

26—Mahala.

Revolutionary Services

Henry Cortright (1706-). The name Henry Cortright occurs on a roll of the 3rd regiment of Ulster Co., militia in New York in the Revolution as Colony and State'', p. 195. But we are not able to find the date of his death. This is the only man of this name recorded from this place, so we feel sure the service was rendered by him. But the proof is not sufficient for joining a patriotic society.

Jonathan Ballard (1723-1785) was private in Capt. Benjamin Farnum's Co., also in Capt. Stephen Abbot's Co., designated at different times as the 10th, 11th and 15th Mass. He enlisted Feb. 20, 1777, for 3 years and was discharged Feb. 20, 1780. Enlisted again July 1, 1780, for 6 mo. Certificates No. 43508-44307-44915 & 45089 were issued to him as of Fifth Regiment (Old 10-15) Mass., under Major M. Knapp; paid to Nov. 4, 1783. P. Holland, agent. From 17th report of N. S. D. A. R. to Congress, p. 154-176. His residence during the war was Billerica, Mass.

Jacob Conklin (1741-1813) was Captain of a Militia Company in the Revolutionary war and saw a very great deal of emergency and frontier service, and took part in most of the doings in the Highlands of the Hudson. He commanded a company in the Fourth Regiment of Militia. Col. Jonathan Hasbrouck, on Oct. 11, 1775, and still did on April 6, 1776. Later he had a company in the Third Ulster County Militia under Col. Levi Pawling and later Col. John Cantine. Capt. Conklin was in Col. Johannes Snyder's Regiment at Fort Montgomery on May 14, 1777, and shared in that memorable defense. Again in 1779 he was at West Point, Second Captain in Col. Hardenbergh's Regiment of Militia. He sat on many court martials; and also served as Judge Advocate. From Van Benschoten Genealogy, page 246.

Moses Cortright (1745-1824), Capt. in 3rd Regiment of Orange Co., Militia, appointment May 24, 1775; reappointed

Feb. 26, 1778. He resigned his commission Mar. 12, 1783. He also signed the articles of association of Minisink, Orange Co., New York. Reference: Clinton papers. Vol. III., p. 443, New York in Rev. as Col. and State, p. 161.

Jacob Van Etten (1696-1779), sheriff and associator in Dutchess Co. He led the county in taking bonds and gave all he had to the support of the war. Reference: See D. A. R. Nat. Nos. 7157 and 9674.

Anthony Van Etten (1726-1778) served as Justice of the Peace, was an associator in Orange Co. He was assassinated and his house set fire by a band of Tories and Indians led by Brandt. Reference: See D. A. R. Nat. Nos. 7157-9674.

Thomas Decker (1704-1780) signed the Association test in Orange Co., New York. Reference: See D. A. R. Nat. No. 16072.

Isaac Van Benschoten (1723-after 1786) signed the Roll of Honor in Ulster Co. in April, 1775. April 23, 1779, his name appears among the exempts in the company of Capt. Jacob Conklin, his son-in-law. From Van Benschoten Genealogy, p. 245.

Levi Van Wagner (-) whose son Jonathan m. Mary Conklin and had Catherine, wife of George Cortright (No. 54 in Cortright line) is said to have rendered service, but we do not possess the record or proofs.

Bigelow

BIGELOW

This name in America is variously spelled as follows: Biglo, Bigula, Baglow, Biggalough, Beagley, Beagland, Bigelow or Biglow as fancy dictates. The family originated in England, was of blended German and Scandinavian blood. Will give a little sketch of the family in England; it may be of interest to some.

Richard deBaguley, Lord of Baguley, County of Chester 1243, married Alice, daughter of Ralph de Vernon. Their son Ralph de Baguley, who married a daughter of Hamon Massey, Baron of Dunham Massey, owned land in Baguley and Ollerton, in the parish of Knutsford. They had three sons, Sir John William and Hamon, but only through Hamon has the name been perpetuated.

One of his descendants, Ralph de Baguley, died in 1540, leaving two sons, Randall and Nicholas, and both of them dying left two sons. Ralph Baguley, son of Philip, and grandson of Randall (above), married 1583 Elizabeth Hill and had nine children. His will was proved at Chester 1617. But it was from Robert Baguley of Ollerton, buried November 4, 1582, through his son Randall, who married Jane, and who died at Wrentham, County Suffolk, England, 1626. that the American branch springs. D. A. R. Magazine, Feb. 1923. p. 93.

VAN BENSCHOTEN AND CONKLIN

1—[1-p. 12 and 19] Theunis Eliassen Van Benschoten's name appears first in American records at Kingston, N. Y., April 3, 1671; m. Gerritje Gerrits, we know not when nor where. Their names indicate that they were from Holland. His will was dated Feb. 5, 1725-26. The last record found for

The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the car was the smell of the sea. It was a salty, tangy scent that filled the air. I took a deep breath and felt a sense of peace wash over me. The sun was shining brightly, and the waves were crashing against the shore. It was a beautiful sight, and I knew that I was in for a great day.

I walked along the beach, feeling the sand between my toes. The water was so clear, and the colors were so vibrant. I saw a seagull flying overhead, and a small boat in the distance. I felt like I was in a dream. I had never felt this way before, and I knew that I was going to love this place. I had found a new home, and I was going to stay here for good.

I had heard that the weather was perfect, and now I knew it was true. The sun was just what I needed, and the sea was exactly what I needed. I had found a place where I could relax and enjoy life. I had found a place where I could be happy. I had found a place where I could be me.

I had found a place where I could be happy. I had found a place where I could be me. I had found a place where I could be happy. I had found a place where I could be me.

I had found a place where I could be happy. I had found a place where I could be me. I had found a place where I could be happy. I had found a place where I could be me. I had found a place where I could be happy. I had found a place where I could be me.

I had found a place where I could be happy. I had found a place where I could be me. I had found a place where I could be happy. I had found a place where I could be me. I had found a place where I could be happy. I had found a place where I could be me.

CHAPTER 1: THE BEACH

I had found a place where I could be happy. I had found a place where I could be me. I had found a place where I could be happy. I had found a place where I could be me. I had found a place where I could be happy. I had found a place where I could be me.

her was dated July 21, 1700. Theunis and Gerritje had 10 children; the third child was:

2—[3-p. 21] Elias Van Benschoten, bap. Nov. 23, 1679, at Kingston; m. (1) same place, Aug. 13, 1705, Sarah Jans, bap. at Kingston, Oct. 8, 1686; m. (2) Catrina, who brought up the step children and 8 of her own. We do not know when they were married, but her first child was born Apr. 23, 1717. Elias d. the winter of 1757-58. Sixth child by second marriage was:

3—[20-p. 244] Isaac Van Benschoten, bap. at Kingston, N. Y., Sept. 11, 1723; m. (date not known, but early), Nellie Van Vliet*, (or Pieterella) we do not know when Nellie was b. or bap., or when either Isaac or Nellie d., but they were both living in 1786 for Dec. 29 they act as sponsors at the baptism at a grandchild at New Hurley church. Isaac has Revolutionary service to his credit, which is given on page 56. They had six children, the eldest being:

4—[544-p. 246] Catrina Van Benschoten, m. Jacob Conklin: he was bap. May 26, 1741, son of Johannes Conklin and Annatje Storm. Jacob Conklin was a Captain in the Revolutionary war: his service will be found with those of other members of the family who assisted in that memorable struggle. He died at Sempronius, Cayuga Co., N. Y., in 1813, is buried in Niles in an old grave yard. Catrina died in 1794 in Woodbourne and Jacob m. (2) Margaret Rump. By the first marriage he had 11 children; the sixth was:

5—[555-p. 251] Isaac Conklin, bap. Nov. 17, 1774; m. 1796. Elizabeth Davis; b. Jan. 25, 1774; d. Jan. 27, 1839; he d. May 12, 1862. He is said to have been an amusing old man; he was heard to declare that the devil must have had a grudge against him and paid it off in sons-in-law, for his family was mostly of girls. Isaac Conklin's first two children were twins, Catherine

* Note: Nellie Van Vliet, who m. Isaac Van Benschoten, was dau. of Arie (or Aaron) VanVliet and Jenneke Knoet; Arie bap. Mar. 26, 1699, at Kingston, son of Gerrit VanVliet and Pieterella Swart (dau. of Tunis Cornelisen Swart and Elizabeth Van der Linden of Albany), and grandson of Adrian and Agatha Van Vliet. Jenneke Knoet was dau. of Frederick Knoet and Francina Du Mond of Kingston.

and Maria, b. Mar. 4, 1798. Maria m. Mar. 18, 1819, Jonathan Van Wagnor; he d. Dec. 11, 1891; she d. Mar. 27, 1870. They lived at Plymouth, Ohio, and are the ancestors of 76 and 77 in the Cortright line; while through the fifth child, or Lucy, are the Webbers, which are recorded in the second part of this work. There were 10 children. The dau.:

6—[555-e-p. 251] Lucy Conklin, b. Feb. 22, 1806; d. June 23, 1897; m. in July 1824, David Ballard Webber; b. Sept. 13, 1799; d. Nov. 5, 1874. They lived in Plymouth, Ohio, on a farm; he also taught school.

These records are taken from the Van Benschoten Genealogy and the numbers in brackets are as they are given in that work, reference to page is also given.

There was a monthly magazine published in Kingston, N. Y., from 1905 to 1914 called "Olde Ulster". In one of these magazines was printed a list of the names of the early settlers with the meaning of the names given.

The following is taken from this list in "Olde Ulster":

Kortright (Kortrect). There is a proverb, still current, in Netherlands, which is Kort recht. Goed recht (prompt justice, satisfactory justice). The name probably arose with some ancestor of the family, who was a magistrate and administered justice in a prompt and satisfactory manner.
